“NEW EDUCATION SYSTEM PROVIDES QUALITY EDUCATION”
by Mark Yel P. Balbuena

The educational curriculum in the Philippines is low compared to other countries. We are even one of the lowest in Asia. As a result, our last curriculum, Basic Education Curriculum (BEC), is not enough to satisfy the needs and necessary of the students for the preparation of their future. To give answer to the problem that the country is facing of, the government of the Philippines under Aquino’s administration started the K-12 system which follows the international educational system that helps to learn more advanced subjects and to be able to learn them properly. Naturally, the known K-12 educational program started from kindergarten up to high school.

The new education system, K-12 system, is used by the United States and the other countries including our country. This system is prolonged educational programs that will help students embrace a better quality education and will give them job opportunities, especially abroad. Adding K-12 system to the curriculum will also enhance the education of the country because schools will not need to quicken the learning process of the students. Moreover, it will improve the country’s educational system and the country as a whole.

Recently, it has been proposed to be used. By changing our curriculum, students will surely have a higher standard of education. Department of Education (DepEd) proposed this program to enhance the learning capabilities of the students. K-12 system provides many privileges with more time for students to study and understand their lessons. They may be able to use their knowledge in the real life situation and use it authentically. Furthermore, there will be more time to study more advanced subjects that they are going to encounter in college. With the help of this program, students will be much prepared for the preferred course in tertiary level of education.

In addition, this K-12 program prepares the students for work after graduating. There is so much course or strands to be selected that suit with their strengths, skills, and capabilities. It is a big help for everyone especially for the graduates of K-12 who will not be sent to a university for college. The students who have accomplished the 12 year system will automatically be recognized professionals because we are following the international education standard. But it is better to be sent off to college because completing all levels of education would mean a better job in or out of the country.

Nowadays, our country is undergoing a big change particularly our educational system. It helps students to get a better a job and let them experience good quality education that will good for their future. Furthermore, it will be of good use to the students and it might bring forth a new beginning for the country. The advancement of having an improved quality education would lead to an earlier success in a student’s life.
