“RELEVANCE OF SOCIAL SCIENCE”
Prepared by: Judy Anne Y. Salibio, Teacher-Applicant

The timeliness of social science should be considered by the teacher and students because it may have a great effect on the field of education and on the lives of the people in the country.

It is a fact that social science has a complete track record in transformation of a certain country from intensive agricultural economy to modern urban society since it updates itself on the unfolding events that happened.

Social science not only reveals the past but it also adapts to the present time in order to contribute to the development and betterment of humanity.

Its relevance may be expressed in presenting social reality, citing the interest of the society, giving sociological studies report, updating on the economic development progress, recording on people’s population, mentioning the successful turn out, featuring governance and leadership, mentioning current pressing problem, introducing good political practices, and focusing on social issues.

The social realities are clearly and comprehensive known in social science. Social science shows what are happening around the country and even in the world as updated as possible and as truthful as people are expecting.

Furthermore, social science cites the interest of the society. The media reports on the advocacies, preferences and sentiments of people are important matters that are in the concerns of social science. The interests affect the way people behave in the society.

Social science as written in various books, newspaper and other reading materials gives reports on society. Facts and figures are presented in order to provide pertinent facts and in order to show the veracity of the recent turn out of behaviors and ways of people.

Economic development is also updated in social science subject. The economic activities and economic success of various nations and places are mentioned in order to give current reports on production, budget, expenditure and profit.

The increase of population may also be found in social science. Social science states the dramatic increase of people in the different parts of the world.
Aside from presenting social realities, social science also states the achievements of people in various fields and endeavors. The inspirational victories of people are highlighted in social science.

Of course since social science deals with politics and government, it also gives emphasis on the way the leaders govern their respective territories.

The current pressing problems are also being tackled in social science. They may be discussed by the learners in school as they face in the social science class and these may even reach a bigger venue for discussion like in television and radio.

Introducing good political practices may be found in social science. The books and other references on social science tells leaders who practice good governance and politics.

Finally, social science is focusing on social issues. It tackles current events for these affect the present lives of people in the community.

These are the features of social science which make it relevant to people and to the society.

Electronic Reference: