A dedicated teacher like a good coach makes the classroom feels better. There is an analogy here. Schools with dedicated and hardworking teachers similar to a basketball team with good players and a committed coach is likely to win and will reach its goal. In addition to this, the classroom can achieve much more if the teacher is creative and innovative and is never tired of searching for new strategies and methods to improve the teaching-learning situation.

It is important to note that the boredom inside the class can be cured by the teachers creativity and challenging activities, inspiring the pupils to engage in hands-on activities, increase their self-esteem and inspire them. Classrooms with this kind of program will become productive and pupils tend to enjoy the daily routine given to them. Tardiness and absenteeism will be addressed and school performance will rise to a high level.

The most effective teachers are the ones who report to school early armed with prepared lessons and instructional devices, roam around the classroom during class discussions, jolly and friendly, challenge his learners and has good relationship with his pupils and parents.

It is evident that a dedicated teacher is an important agent in creating a conducive atmosphere and environment in school. One of the keys to improve class performance is to motivate teachers to work harder and continuously dedicate his life for the future of our youth. To be more creative and innovative in teaching, to desire for professional growth and to be more concern in improving the performance of his class.
