A HAPPY SCHOOL

by:

Marites P. Tria
Teacher III, Orani North Elementary School

The school is said to be the second home of the learners and it is the teacher’s advocacy to make it a happy place for the school children.

Positive environment. A happy school provides positive environment. This kind of school environment promotes kindness, pleasantness and optimistic outlook in education. The school that is positive wears a big smile on the face of each of the people within the school community.

Goal-oriented. A school that is happy has a goal being aspired. This goal motivates the school to be at best and to be more active and dynamic. A school that is considered as achiever promotes happiness and excellence among its members.

Sense of inclusiveness. A happy school includes everyone regardless of race, religion, culture, gender and the like. It promotes inclusiveness of all kinds of people for education is for all whether you are young or old.
Everything is in order. A school that observes orderliness whether in the facilities or in the system of management or in the delivery of teaching instructions, order is expected to be applied.

Creating well-being. A happy school is much deeply concerned with the well-being of the teachers, students, and of the entire staff. It is working for the welfare and goodness of the people in the whole institution. It provides quality education to learners. It also provides proper benefits to teachers and staff.

Emphasizing praise rather than criticism. A happy school gives praises rather than criticisms. It recognizes the accomplishments and good deeds of students, teachers and staff. It boosts their morale to soar higher and to become a great achiever.

Promoting life skills. A happy school is being enjoyed by the learners because receive life skills which they imbibe in everyday undertaking. The students may feel free to learn and fortunate to absorb the skills they owe to learn.

With fun activities. A happy school is filled with fun and useful activities for the children. These activities entice the interests of the learners and elevate their spirits upon savoring fun-filled school activities.
Stakeholders’ participation. A happy school is supported by the stakeholders and of the community. It engages the parents and other members of the school community in various concerns, meetings, drives and activities of the school.

Absolutely, a happy school is being described above and it is up for you to realize these things in your own school.

References:

https://www.livehappy.com/science/educ