What would happen if there’s no teacher in this world? Do you think we can have engineers, accountants, nurses or doctors? Well, I think it is impossible because it all started from the school where teachers molds and nurture the young minds of many pupils to become successful in their life.

Certainly you tend to explore and discover new things in school and eventually learned a lot from your teacher. He fairly give equal opportunity for many pupils to showcase their potentials. Constantly guides you, support and cheer you up just to have confidence. A teacher gives his best care and love that you deserved in school even you have worst behavior in class. Hence, when you’re struggling to defeat the most difficult problem you encountered in life there they are willing to comfort you and hugged you to lessen the burden that you carry. Generally, teachers develop total personality of many young pupils to become unique of their own.

However, we always see teachers smiling in front of the class but what they don’t know behind this smile there is a pain in their hearts. But they keep it on their own. Since they don’t want to share negativity to their class instead to spread positivity. Despite these shortcomings, they still keep on doing their responsibility as a teacher they don’t mind the long hours of work, the low compensation and stress every day.

According to (Dowd, 2018) she stressed that teachers are important in the society because they prepare and influence tomorrow’s leaders. These future leaders, will serve the entire country to become a better and thrive nation. Moreover, because of these teachers every day, students learn important lessons about sharing, respect, valuing differences and making righteous decisions. Teachers give marks to the lives of their pupils that can be forever cherished and treasured. Teaching doesn’t only mean as a noblest profession with an arduous standard; it is a job to serve others.

Teachers are truly the gift and the blessing to everyone because they were sent by God to do their calling to serve others, spread knowledge and to be an instrument to see potentials and believe in the best of others.
