ACCORD TO THE GOLDEN STRING

by:
Anna Rica D. Perey
Teacher III, Justice Emilio Angeles Gancayco Memorial High School

“Be the change that you want to see the world”.

These words of wisdom that Mahatma Gandhi, an influential ma, spoke out a long time ago. But let me ask your heart and mind, do you agree with him about “change” into this world we’re living in? If yes, let me bring you to the life of making a difference, starting from everyone’s second precious home.

First of all, have you ever experienced being a student? What are the odds that you defy as you go on your path? Well, until now, people, some of them, are trying and persevering so that they could see and exhibit their very best at their field or talent. Do you want to find out how and what are the one-of-a-kind gifts that each of us has?

Based on explanations scientifically and spiritually, every individual possesses their skills, and each was given by him above an innate intelligence or character that is different from others. And yes, it is quite true. Starting from students, people can see different abilities that were improved by students, and also people who influence them. These influential people include teachers, classmates, friends, families, and role models in their lives.

But let’s go back to the change that we would want. If you were asked, how could you make a change in your own life, even in a community? Would you use your power that is essential? or would you involve other people means just for your own sake?

Well, nowadays, we can mostly see people who shine at their strength. There are motivational speakers and talented people who raise their voices throughout the world, just to make a better change. They serve as an instrument that inspires many especially students.

Indeed, we can use our skills, talents, and power as the light that would guide people in their paths. We could be the key that would open the door to success. We could index our epilogue and agree with each other’s perspectives. As what I could only say, “To our destinies and track, we’d bring, a powerful skill that should be fringed. Our tune and rhyme are what we’d sing, and yes, these would assent and accord to the golden path, holding onto a golden string”.

References:

https://www.theschooloflife.com/thebookoflife/be-the-change-you-want-to-see/

https://aut.ac.nz.libguides.com/APA6th/articles https://www.goodreads.com/quotes/24499-be-the-change-that-you-wish-to-see-in-the