Have you ever heard about New Normal? Few months ago, we’ve got shocked by the effect of Corona Virus not just in our home country but the global as well. Adjusting in a new environment has been an issue for some employee. Do you have an idea on how to adopt these changes in our daily lives?

New environment. New adjustment. Some of us think about how we can cope with this kind of situation. Some of us learn about how we can adopt these changes towards accomplishing the tasks given. Taking the reality of having difficulties in adopting different changes in office workplace or home can bring you in a more widen way of communicating with your fellows.

Covid-19 will end soon, hopefully. But the fear that marked to us will remain forever. Stating some of the changes in office workplace can help others to be aware of the new environment when they go back to work.

Social Distancing and Temperature Checks. Though we’re not used to have temperature checks when entering, we still need to comply and implementing social distancing in office work can help them to prevent from having contagious disease. Moreover, providing the guidelines can also help them to comply with the given order.

Alternate Days of Duty. Some offices adopt the work arrangement of their employees. They come up like MWF and TTH schedule of reporting to office. Some personnel will have Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays to work from home while some are Tuesdays and Thursdays on skeletal workforce, and vice versa.
Usage of modern changes. Enhancing your skills when it comes to technology has now become so natural since work from home was implemented. Instead of face-to-face meeting, they use software applications which can help them to gather meetings of their personnel. Moreover, submission of documents and/or reports has become upgraded since it follows online submission or through scanned documents.

Being comfortable in your own workplace. You don’t need to comply with what you should dress. As long as you are working from home you can suit any dress you want, to make you feel comfortable and productive in work. No corporate attires. No uniforms.

As those employees have used to work with each other physically, there’s a challenge now on how they will accomplish the tasks given to them. New workplace environment will teach us some lessons to prepare when facing the next pace of our daily lives.
