ADVANTAGES OF SOCIAL STUDIES
by:
Jay S. Dueñas,
Teacher II, Magsaysay National High School

“If you don't know your history, you don't know what you are talking about!”
— Barbara Ann Mojica

This is highly related to the study of Social Studies for it keeps us aware of numerous things regarding our country and our history and even other related social sciences. This also connotes that people should learn the past for them to face the present and prepare for the future.

Social Studies is remarkably related to other disciplines like anthropology, archaeology, geography, history, economics, civics, political science, culture and sociology. With this idea, we can say that this learning area is advantageous to learners for the scope of their studies would be widened.

It deals with the diverse human behaviors and their interactions. It is really amazing to discover things about people not only of today but also of yesterday. In this regards, Social Studies is advantageous because the students learn to appreciate and recognize different people and their ways of interacting with each other.

It also cites different cultures. The customs and traditions are also discussed extensively in this subject. Social Studies may let us understand the attributes, norms standards, customs and traditions of people. The philosophies and beliefs of these people are also being features. Knowledge on different cultures is advantageous for we let our students to learn the ways of living in other localities and other countries.

It may also tackle the evolution of human life. Students may clearly perceive how men evolved, from living in the caves to having their own shelters in the lowlands. It is exciting on the part of the students to see the changes that happened in men from the pre-historic time to the present. Having the said information may enrich the students’ knowledge.

It showcases the economic development and growth of different countries. Social Studies leads us to learning the origin and success of people in terms of economy. Though the ideas of economic success of people, the students may have insights on how to face and manage the economic matters today and in the future.

It tells on geography which includes the features and characteristics of those places. There are so many attention-grabbing places in the world and the students may discover and trace them in the study of Social Studies subject.

Laws are also learned in Social Studies. By means of studying the prevalent laws that we have at present, the students may be aware of the right things and their responsibilities in order to be being a law-abider.

Studying Social Studies is truly advantageous for a lot of benefits are gained and students should take not of this.

References:
https://www.goodreads.com/quotes/tag/social-studies
https://www.arrowmontessori.com/importance-social-studies-schools/