Part of the K to 12 Curriculum is the Alternatively Learning System popularly known as ALS. It is a learning system in our country that allows another choice in place of the regular formal education. It caters the Out-of-School Youth (OSY) and adult learners who stopped in basic education. For those who cannot have formal education, ALS could be a great opportunity.

ALS is a mode of education that addresses the needs of the learners who dropped out from school due to valid reasons and those who did not study due to the long distance from school. Even the adult learners who ceased from schooling for a long time are being served by Alternative Learning System (ALS).

ALS was before known as non-formal education. It endows the learners of basic literacy that they need to avail. It provides essential skills and practical skills to its educational clientele. The literacy program and essential skills let the ALS students to grasp the foundation of learning that they need to embrace for their benefits.

Their learning process may be held at the convenient place and the convenient time allowing flexibility in them. The ALS education may take place even outside the classroom or even at the community where the learners reside on the agreed schedule by the ALS teacher and the students.

They can avail of the Continuing Education Program Accreditation and Equivalency (A&E) that gives them the opportunity to attain further education. Once they passed the test conducted by ALS, the students can continue in finishing their education that is depending on the grade level that they will be elevated as achieved in the scores.

Education can be reached though you live an extra mile from the school. The Alternative Learning System through its very dynamic and hardworking ALS teachers can make these students literate and well-skilled. These teachers are well-trained in order to offer alternative way of learning.

Alternative Learning seems to be the one shedding light to those who are losing hope for a brighter future. ALS is here to guide them and lead them to the learning that they owe to acquire. ALS is really working for the welfares.
