In our generation, an ordinary person can have the name of the so called Modern Day Hero. It is because even though you didn’t gave all you life, as long as you have a clean and pure heart, you can be a hero. What’s more is that they can be classified into a variety of groups, which stands out with their own alluring and fascinating attitude. Let me count the three amazing people who are the savior of those who seek a bright light ahead of their lives.

Have you ever heard of Overseas Filipino Workers? OFWs are Filipino citizens who work on their profession outside the country. They are admired for sacrificing to go to far places and face the odds and cruelty, just for their families. Also, they served as a big help into the economy of their country, just like when they are sending money and goods back into here. Moreover, we can say that ten million OFWs can be heroes for the obstacles they face for their families, and the community.

Second, do you remember your teacher who gave straight A’s on your activities, your doctor who just gave you the right medicine, and your very special parents who gave all the support and love and dedication is complex which can be beyond limitless. They plant the seeds that will grow and bear fruits that someday, we will reap.

Lastly, we should never forget good Samaritans, or the simple ones who are ready to help even if they got nothing for their selves.

Indeed, as time flies, there might be less people who will be good, but something is gone, something better will come back. Always remember that if all of us helped each other and act as one family, all of us could be modern day heroes. Just make sure that you should always keep your mind and hearts open, and always give a hand to others. Be optimistic on your thoughts and plans. Altogether, we can raise the crown for a better world, we can justify the glory, we can be epitome of victory.
