AN INSTRUMENT

by:
Irene A. Dela Cruz
Teacher I, St. Francis National High School

"Be an instrument of creativity."

This is what a teacher in MAPEH should always bear in mind. Find out what interests and motivates them day in and out and integrate it with the lesson. Teachers whose lessons have surprises and elements of fun are more appreciated by the students. One of the easiest ways to promote creativity among them is to provide school or classroom activities that will make them explore their creative thinking.

Creativity is something that can be learned, although, many said that it is something you must be born with. But, once a student is given a task, they will use their resourcefulness to be good at it. Students of today's generation are indeed very expressive. They respond positively to teachers who break the traditional way of teaching and learning and allow them to showcase their creativity through different means which is within the recent trend. You will see how their creativity expands as they execute the task that is very engaging and dynamic.

"Be an instrument of creativity and fun."

To keep developing their skills, various interesting classroom activities that will enhance their creativity may be provided and be part of daily routine than an occasional one. Dancing, singing, painting, acting, playing instruments are just some, but these may be turned into something more agreeable rather than stressful. These shall be encouraged to students because these may help them to imagine and innovate. Enable them to have fun while creativity progresses.
"Be an instrument of creativity and inspiration."

Teachers are also expected to be equipped with these skills to influence and encourage students to hone theirs. They tend to feel bored and may lose attention in the midway if not well-motivated. If they can creatively express themselves through the help of the teacher in the classroom, they will also build up their confidence. Inspiration rubs off and will create in students the desire to imitate the teacher. Create to inspire is a call for every teacher.

“Be an instrument of creativity and be flexible.”

To become a flexible teacher, one shall be knowledgeable by attending training courses or programs that will develop the skills. As a teacher, being creative and being knowledgeable shall always come in pair. What you know may lead you to a greater effect and what you can do for your students will tell how effective you are in the classroom. Old ones may be adapted but never stop trying out new ideas and strategies. Put in mind that learning other things are important too so let yourself bring out the creativity in you and use it to enrich your teaching. Look at everything you do with a critical eye and consider how your lessons could be made more motivating, productive, and interesting for your learners.

References:

https://hobbylark.com/performingarts/importanceofdance#:~:text=Dancing%20provides%20many%20great%20benefits%20and%20while%20it%27s,Is%20a%20form%20of%20exercise.%20More%20items...%20