Preparing for the opening of classes is a tough job for teachers especially the new ones. Which do you prefer? Do things right? Or Do the right things?

I think both we need to be sufficient to do the right things like doing the plethora of instructional materials, cleaning, decorating our classrooms, restructuring bulletin boards and updating DLL, those are needed. And to be used in another school year-round. We make sure that all necessary materials are well prepared.

However, we need to consider how to utilize the materials we do effectively. The ability of every child must be determined to know if they can learn and master the lessons. Ask yourself, Can I use those materials effectively? Are they suited to the intellectual level of my pupils? We cannot say that teachers are effective if he only does all things needed inside the classroom for compliance. We need to be true and honest to ourselves if the things we do are really applicable. We should be child-centered and result oriented. Anticipate the possible output and their effects on the learners.

In order to attain an effective and efficient learning environment discover and impose indispensable factors for the better learnings of the youngsters.
