BOOKS: A FRIEND OF EVERY ONE

by:

Raquel S. Calma
Master Teacher I, Sisiman Elementary School

Reading is essential in our daily life. Through reading, we gain knowledge which we use as a weapon of ourselves to survive in this world. As what Regina M. Tabian stated that learners come in various ages from the time they go to school as a preschoolers up to a college or even in a doctorate degree. It can be formal or non-formal education, we can agreed upon in one thing, they all reading books. Books serve as their weapons.

Books are very important to school children. When they entered in school during their formative years, the teachers ask them to read, read and understand all the information written in it. It is also integrated in all subject areas in school.

Reading books, magazines, comics, and even newspapers is a good study habit. It develops the vocabulary of individual and learns many things that can be used to be productive, efficient, effective and have a meaningful life.

Books come in many forms, sizes and colors, bindings and prints. It will depend on the age level of the readers who may use the books. It should catch up the attention of one who will read the books.

Not only schoolers use books as their weapon of learning. Even professionals read books. Teachers always read books before teaching lessons to the pupils. It also serves as their weapons in their field of expertise. In books, they improve their teaching methods and strategies while teaching.

So what we are waiting for...motivate our pupils, motivate ourselves to be a book reader lover.
References:

The Modern Teacher Volume 62, November 2013, p.208