CONTINUING EDUCATION: A CHALLENGE TO EVERYONE

by:
Susan T. Sunga
Bagac Elementary School

In our country, there is a need for continuing education, this is a challenge to everyone.

An educated person never stops learning. Once he thinks he knows everything, it signals his decline to obsolescence and illiteracy.

Continuing education, as the word suggests, is a never ending endeavor, it is not just a means to ill the time or satisfy our curiosity but it is prerequisite for us to energize, sustain creativity, attain a minimum level of technological competence, and search for and exploit new opportunities so that we can survive. Perhaps one day, we may cease to think individually of Asia and the rest of the world, but finally live as one family in a common world, or even complete in the 21st century.

There are institutions that give help and assistance to people who wish to continue education. These are the following: Technology Livelihood Training Center, National Manpower and Youth Council, other colleges and universities that offer extension services and scholarships, NGO’s, Regional Fisheries Training Center, Non-Formal Education and others.

Common to all, continuing education instruments of learning are information, computers and broadcast media. These are new innovations for quality education.
References:

https://www.statece.com

Deltoure F. and E. Jordan. Philosophy and Education