CREATING A PARENT – TEACHER RELATIONSHIP

by:
Gemma T. Gallor

Parents are considered as the strongest partner of the school in the development of the future generation… the children. Parents who actively participate in every school activity has brought out a great support to the teacher and the parents to work harmoniously towards a common goal and that is to make teaching-learning more fun and easy.

Researches were conducted and showed that children do better in school when parents often talk with teachers and become involved in school activities. There are some activities that parent need to get into it such as; Brigada Eskwela, Parenting, Clean-up Drive, PTA meetings, and many more. Through the different activities line up for school children the presence of parents is an important factor in consideration of the children’s feelings.

Of course parents really wanted to be a part of every child’s school affair but then the most common reason among them is that they are both working. Therefore, as a teacher you should plan activities that would enable these working parents to take a leave on their work. How? Give the details ahead of time so that those parents who are working can adjust and make some possible ways in order for them to join the event. You can even schedule some activities during weekend if possible.

We cannot deny the fact that there are parents who keep an eye to teachers for some reasons. Yes, it’s true, we cannot please everybody, but as teachers, we must stay committed and exert all our time and efforts to be able to touch the lives of our learners and produce productive citizens in the future with the help and support of the parents.

References:

https://www.readingrockets.org/article/building-parent-teacher-relationships

http://earlylearningnetwork.unl.edu/2018/08/29/parent-teacher-relationships/