A good teacher is like a candle - it consumes itself to light the way for others. - Mustafa Kemal Atatürk

The quality of Teacher’s sacrifices doesn’t alter; even before a pandemic, teacher’s unselfishness flows from within.

Nothing beats the willingness of Teachers even these trying times. Though it is hard engaging and embracing this ‘new normal’ setup, educators only have one mission; it is to teach the children no matter what. The new schooling scenario happening has a big impact on both students and teachers.

From face-to-face, now mostly virtual, communication to students has been uneasy. Electronic devices come in handy these days because it links students for information this coming school year. But, in the Philippines, not all teachers and students have the access to an internet connection nor gadgets to begin with, which is crucial to teaching and making modules.

Considering those who have and don’t have resources, Teachers cater each of their students to reach their dreams no matter what. They remain the quality of education even from the beginning and passionate to what they are doing. The bridge that links those two together shall never be broken, “Para sa Bata” as they say.

Teachers’ commitment is immeasurable, they are the foundation of Education and ‘front liners’ too. No matter how long the mountain to trek or the sleepless nights, they put their students first. Amazing how charity works in harmony with passion.
That candle they consume will never fade away in ages and shall be the guide to generations of children.

BAYANIHAN is in every Juan. Education is for everyone.

“A good teacher is like a candle - it consumes itself to light the way for others.” – Mustafa Kemal Atatürk
