The famous Sir Nelson Mandela once said; “Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world.” Education is indeed vital in one’s success and one’s capability to bring changes in modern time, and so the department of education created a new way to ensure the learning of students despite the pandemic without risking their health, and through their collective efforts the DepEd modular Learning has been fully introduced.

As for public schools, the alternative learning modality for the new normal is modular distance learning, modular learning, based on the survey conducted by DepEd on school opening, is the most preferred alternative by the parents for their children, in this process, the teacher is the one responsible for the distribution, receiving and checking of the learning materials as per DepEd guidelines. These materials will be accessible in different forms such as digitize that can be downloaded, stored and answer in their Smartphones, tablets, and computers. And as for technology and internet problem for most students, a printed module would be a great alternative given that these learning materials are provided by the department of education and handed to our schools and teachers.

But, as the printed lesson or modules delivered to students’ home and class being started, there has been many complaints about errors in the learning module materials distributed to the students by the Department of Education and rightfully so the Department of Education act quickly to discuss and resolved the complaints about it, but that doesn’t stop the netizens to criticize the DepEd on the errors in modules because up to now there are still errors founded in the learning modules.
On a positive note, the Department of Education continues to give and offer the quality of education that Filipino students need in spite of criticism they are receiving, in fact they are preparing for the upcoming school year and as of this writing, were on the 3rd quarter of classes and few more months, school year 2020 is about to end.
