Aside from the basic needs of a child like food, clothing and shelter, education is an essential thing that every human being has to enjoy and attain. Having lived in a society the values education so much, a child may dream of achieving it in order to have a very productive and fruitful life in the future.

As stated in the Philippine Constitution, the child has the right to education that is why every individual’s dream is to achieve education in order to have awareness on the different branches of knowledge thus making one prolific and skillful.

An educational attainment is very important for a child considers education as one treasure that may remain for a long time. A lifetime gem that is precious for it brings many benefits and it opens doors to several opportunities.

A person’s education can make him or her smart. In this regard, it just shows that education can make a person unveil his or her hidden abilities and be able to enhance them making him or her smart who is ready to face the challenges of the society and of the world.

A person may acquire more skills in education. The different learning areas in the educational field teach worthwhile skills that are not only useful in school but also applicable in workplace someday and this is the reason why the child loves to study and to discover the different things in education.

A child believes that education may help an individual achieve full potential. As the child studies he learns a lot and this is the way that he or she develops, improves and enhances his or her best potentials and evolves in order to be more dynamic and productive.

A better career and good life may be possible through education. It is a living proof that someone who finished education has the power to attain a better career and eventually to have a good life. On the eyes of the young children, they are inspired to dream of acquiring education for they see that many educated people have better jobs and convenient life.

A promising future is what every child dreams and education is the key to this aspiration. A child may continue dreaming and someday achieve the fruits of education.

A key to a progressive life is education. Let us influence and motivate our schoolchildren to continue dreaming of education for because it leads to one’s success, as both in knowledge and in the practical world.

Education is indeed a child’s dream. It is certainly a mere fact.
