The first thing a parent would like to let their children know is the importance of life; how they should value it, the same way on how their parent value them the moment they were born. As the saying goes, children are the most valuable resource and only hope of the future that’s why every mother and father will face all the challenges and do the sacrifices to provide the necessities of their children most especially, the thing that cannot be take away from anyone, the education.

A child’s success starts to become possible once he opens his eyes on the reality of life that it would be an advantage if he will be able to explore the world as he attends school – which is everyone’s right. It is very necessary to have a better education for it facilitates learning, knowledge, and skill. Through it, a child starts to become someone who is knowledgeable of what is right and wrong, and finally turns into an individual who can make contributions not only for his country, but for the world.

Education plays a vital role in our lives as it develops our confidence and helps us build our personality to become a better version of ourselves. It caters unlimited learnings that are very useful to us which we can use to fight our own battles. The world has become more competitive now. It demands for professionals who can contribute to the world’s betterment. This is now a period where even at the young age, we are expected to look beyond our capability to navigate and see what this world could offer.

Civil rights activist Martin Luther King, Jr. once said, “The function of education is to teach one to think intensively and to think critically. Intelligence plus character — that is the goal of true education.” The moment we graduated, that is just a beginning of a new chapter of our lives because after that, we will face the world carrying all the learnings that we gain in school to finally face adulthood wherein we will look for our respective jobs that will become our source of income. Intelligence and character are just two of the major requirements in achieving goals. These two are perfect combination that we can blend to reach our desire and make people see what we can do, and what more we can give.

Indeed, education can turn our dreams into reality that’s why it is believed to be the key towards success. Many of us really strived hard and reached their success because they have the confidence to get through the tough times, the deadlines, the nights spent in front of the computer, finishing reports and other requirements. It is just a matter of believing in ourselves that we can do it, and that we are near to what we prayed for. Just keep it mind that it’s not enough that you’ve done something good, but your best instead. What you need to do it to look beyond your limitations by having devoted time to study and read books, papers and learnings on a subject, where you will have an in-depth understanding of what you want to know on a subject-matter, compared to those who only have general knowledge.

Education is a mind-expanding gift that can make your life an easier and meaningful one. It is truly powerful as it also makes the quality of life easier. Just keep in mind that it can also help you break into new industries where you can boost more your overall confidence and show your capabilities. We all want to become successful so do not forbid yourself to go out on your comfort zone because outside it, is a world full of opportunities that will let you grow holistically.
