EDUCATION THE BACKBONE OF A NATION

by:
Joalden M. Apostol
Teacher I, Orani National High School Parang - Parang

Development of a nation, definitely rely most on Education. It plays a vital role in nurturing our today’s and future leaders in the progress our of nation.

Education is essential in every nation, that’s why our government allocate biggest budget in Department of Education comparing in all other agencies, because our leaders know the importance of education in shaping our country, We all know that uneducated person vote only because of money without knowing what are the capabilities of our candidates they are like going to a war fighting without having a weapon.

Rodrigo Roa Duterte, Educated; Lawyer fiscal a graduate of San Beda College of Law, former City Mayor of Davao City and now the 16th President of the Republic of the Philippines.

One of the educated people who have contributed as a nations pride because of his contribution in the field of education is Bro. Armin Luistro, a Filipino, Lasallian brother who served as the Secretary of Education under the administration of Benigno “Noynoy” Aquino Jr...

Manny V. Pangilinan, Educated: is a Filipino businessman, studied at Ateneo De Manila University, Wharton School of the University Pennsylvania and San Beda College, He is also the one of the business tycoon in the Philippines.

All those mentioned names are educated, they are all popular in their own field, they are all successful persons possibly because they have the skills, knowledge and abilities to manage their own business or profession wisely, All I know they all went to school where they acquired and mold by their teachers to become educated and successful individual.

We go to school because we want to learn, to be educate, to work as teachers in public schools, engineers, Doctors and nurse in public hospitals, accountant, or even a secretary in different government agencies, while others choose to work in a private company.

Wherever you’re working in a government or private sector, We are all part, in shaping the future and growth of our country, because we are all educated.

In an article written by Jessica Kauffman Entitled: Preparing Tomorrow’s Leaders stated that one day they may well be involved in making decisions about the policies that affect global change, natural resource consumption, pollution or genetic engineering. They need the hard facts in order to be well prepared.

Having an education especially having an education beyond the average is having the evidence of training or practice, and also an education is the means or a form of learning in which knowledge, skills and habits are transferred to our next generation, or to our future leaders of our nation.

The education of a person starts when he was born. At the early stage the most important teachers of a child are his parents and especially his mother, because our mother can teach his child best, and there are three levels of education the primary, secondary, and tertiary.

But we consider that for the developmental role of education in a country the tertiary level is important, but I think that for the most important and the start of a child’s education is within his mother’s hands. So the nation or our country are build by mother if she, if she teach her child well then it is impossible that our country can’t develop.
The Education plays a great role in developing our country in every field. So we need to become educated because we are the backbone of our nation.

Last part, Education has a big part in shaping the human minds it plays a model in the development or progress of one country, if the country are educated they can easily help in the development of our nation.

References:

http://csrmatch.org/education-is-the-backbone-of-a-nation/