EDUCATORS AS VITAL INSTRUMENTS TO UPLIFT HUMANS

by:
Catalina G. Bonus
Teacher III Samal North Elementary School

It has been proven by so many countries and education experts that having high regard to education is a vital tool for human uplift and social progress. This fact poses a great challenge to all the DepEd personnel including teachers and School Administrators. We all know that teachers occupies an important position in the educational system - a position that is so valuable because it revolves around the fact that it is focus and concerns with the welfare of the learners. With this, a teacher is expected to committedly perform his tasks to the school where he is assigned, to the parents where he is in partnership with and to the community where he is accountable.

A teacher must also bear in mind that he needs to discharge his duties in accordance to DepEd mission, vision and goals. He must also be responsible for the effective and efficient delivery of education, develop and maintain a school atmosphere conducive to the needs of all children and towards the preservation of quality teaching-learning and harmonious and progressive school-personnel relationship.

It is also important to note that a teacher needs to be an instrument to mold the character of a child with valuable ethics and in our modern world, challenge them to become globally competitive. He also needs to assume and maintain professional behavior in his work and in his dealings with his students, teachers and superior. He also needs to observe fairness, honesty, respect and deep sense of commitment at work and in molding his clientele.
Teacher as a role model in the community must be consistent in all he does.

References:

The Educational Leaders, Chapter One series 2018