ENHANCING TEACHER’S CONFIDENCE

by:
NANCY P. MACARAIG
Master Teacher I, Luakan National High School

Teachers are the prime movers for learning and it is indeed relevant to make themselves more competent in the delivery of instructions and in instilling moral values to the new generation of learners, thus making themselves well-skilled, more able and more confident.

Recognizing their capabilities is one way of supporting teachers boost their confidence. They would definitely feel their worth as teachers and acceptance of their potentialities. In this way the teachers would be more determined in the fulfillment of their duties and responsibilities to the school and to their students as well.

Giving teachers the opportunity to lead is another way to raise their self-esteem. Having the opportunity to lead would make the teachers confident because they are able to exhibit their skills in directing people including their fellow teachers, parents, students and other stakeholders. The chance to spearhead a group, event or activity would be morale-boosting.

Sending teachers to various seminars and trainings is one good way to make them confident. The knowledge and skills that they may possibly gain from seminars and trainings would keep the enhancement of their abilities as teachers. The exposure to the said activities would invigorate the teachers.

Inspiring the teacher to pursue further studies is truly helpful in upgrading themselves. The teachers may grow professionally upon attending classes in the Graduate School. Moreover, they will be exposed to different personalities who may influence them positively to enhance intellectually. Thus, through this, their self-esteem is being raised.
Encouraging the teachers to establishment of strong partnership with parents is another means to let them feel that they are trusted. Having camaraderie with the parents of the students would not only help in the school undertakings and in the learning of the educational clientele but will also make them their relevance and worth in the community.

Allowing teachers to look for linkages that would bring benefits to the school should be encouraged. Dealing with generous private organizations, and Non-Government Organizations (NGO’s) in the improvement of the school would add to the list of the teacher’s accomplishments.

Leading the teachers to perform community services is advantageous for them since they are able to contribute to the welfare of the community and its people. This also creates a big impact on them for they are given the full trust in giving awareness and information to people.

Through the above-mentioned notions, the teachers may be able to grow and be able to enhance their confidence regarding their professional work and other responsibilities within the school and in the community as well.

References:
