EQUALITY AND EQUITY IN EDUCATION

by:
Rodylie C. Calimlim
Teacher III, Pagalanggang National High School

Equality and equity are two important terms that are now considered relevant in education. These are both respecting the rights of the learners as related to education. It is a mere reality that the educational fields are now engrossed in achieving these two factors.

Equality refers to the sameness of opportunities among people. It means that we are entitled to assume our rights in our country particularly in the field of education. This also connotes that we are entitled to receive and acquire education. We also have the freedom to choose the kind of field we prefer to study. Furthermore, equality gives equal chances to boy or girl, and man or woman to enjoy the benefits of education.

On the other hand, equity pertains to much deeper meaning which is assuring that the students in the school are being fully supported in attaining development and progress. This further works for the success of the learners in their respective endeavors and undertakings which are related to education. The people in the school should extend additional or extra means in order for these students to succeed.

The school promotes equality among the students. Boys and girls are entitled to enjoy education. The educational opportunities are given to everybody. The students are treated equally having rights, duties and responsibilities.

The school fulfills equity when it sees to it that everyone has equal footing when it comes to opportunities. There is fairness and having the same access to opportunities in the educational field. The students are supported to overcome the barriers and hindrances.
With equality everyone feels that he or she is important for the right to education is bestowed upon him or her.

With equity everyone feels that he or she is being supported as to attain his or her aspirations in education.

Having equality and equity in education proves that education is indeed for all and nobody will be left behind.

Equality and equity are the great answers to the needs of the people to experience the rights and to succeed in the field of knowledge.

People will continuously be educated and motivated if equality and equity are implemented.

References:

https://www.thinkingmaps.com/equity-education-matters/