FINANCIAL LITERACY OF THE TEACHERS

by:
Roschelle G. Hernandez
Teacher III, Mountain View Elementary School

Financial aspect is very important to the teachers. It is one of the driven factors why the teachers still stay in her profession. It is the machinery to let her family lives in a comfortable life. It is crucial to the teacher to bring her take home salary for living purposes.

Being a financial literate teacher is badly needed in this changing country. The teacher needs to know her priorities in terms of needs, loans, bills and family expenditures. It should be within the top concerns of the teacher. The teacher must refrain from buying not s important things. Sometimes the teacher just wants to be “in” of what is trending today. Applying too much loans which do not need may become a burden.

Republic Act 10922, otherwise known as the “Economic and Financial Literacy Act,” mandates DepEd to “ensure that economic and financial education becomes an integral part of formal learning.”

References:

https://www.omicsonline.org/open-access/financial-literacy-of-professional-and-preservice-teachers-in-the-philippines-2375-4389-1000267-95285.html?fbclid=IwAR0tRDFFkdfrrRTsQpKcVUMcyxUGdWeDVHTx5a3FApigmfz_ahc-vt3D9KqE