HOW TO BE MOTIVATED IN YOUR WORK

by:
Ma. Cecilia B. Bernabe
Administrative Assistant III

All individuals have established different kinds of reasons why they keep on being motivated while they work. Some people want to achieve a higher goal, others want to be recognized, others are just for the monetary considerations and still others want to have a good human relationship.

The root word of motivation is “motive” which is equated to needs, desires, wants or drives of an individual. This is also a way to stimulate people to achieve success through one’s own goal. Many people succeed in life because of their well-driven motive.

However, there are various reasons why workers should remain motivated. An employee must know his real reason why he or she is working for the organization. What are his reasons why he should keep on going. What is your purpose to remain motivated? If you are a plain and simple office clerk, do you have an established real goal in the near future that you must achieve? Perhaps you are aiming to have a higher position someday. So if you were this employee you must create a clear scenario to achieve this goal. Therefore, you must have a plan that may guide you in working. One thing that may help an employee is to look at a bigger frame wherein bigger pictures are posted in his mind. An employee cannot achieve this if he will not remain positive in his outlook in life. For instance, if tasks are overflowing, why not try to be creative, but do not attempt to try multitasking. Try new ways in which you can accomplish your tasks in a simple but not difficult way. Be certain that the work you are handling are manageable; although you cannot manage your work smoothly if you are not well-organized. Be sure that you are not bothered by different thoughts, concentrate and finish your work on time. Most importantly do not adhere to the saying “bahala na bukas.” Keep in mind that what you do has a deadline to beat; so do it the soonest as possible. Never welcome any disturbance when you are doing important tasks, this will distract your time management. Most of all, do not be too serious in dealing with your work. Given that you are well-motivated but you can work lightly and with fun.

References:

Motivationisfundamental.blogspot.com