IMPORTANCE OF INCULCATING VALUES EDUCATION IN THE NEW NORMAL ERA

by:
Kimberly M. AL Ataibi
Teacher Applicant

In this new era, in the lives of children, we believe, it is more important to remember the old ways as taught by parents and the fundamentals taught by them. Every parent must look back at the reason for being of an individual. We should firmly believe and inculcate to our children that our culture, tradition, characteristics and values are important; more so, to our growing children. They must be prepared how to be a good citizen of our country, with COVID or without COVID Pandemic.

As the Department of Education Science and Training, 2005, puts it, Values Education is a process of teaching and learning about the ideals that a society deems important. Values education is synonymous to moral education, character education, ethics and philosophy.

The world has become more sophisticated with technology and became more complicated too. Parents must be on guard on their children’s priority. Children must elevate their skills, but at the same time safeguard their priorities with a positive attitude through the guidance of their parents in this changing world.

The children must be guided by their own dilemma in today’s technology-laden and complex world. Parents must be responsible in educating youngsters about the importance of moral values.

The decline in today’s ethical standards, poor parenting, dishonesty of our leaders and violence have come to characterize the present scenario all over the world.
With this situation, as we enter the new normal, on matters of character and good moral values, parents and teachers alike, we must do everything so that moral values must become an important part of our children’s life.

References:

What is values education and why is it so important? Retrieved from: www.iberdola.com.values education