KINDS OF TEACHER THAT WE HAVE

by:
Roleta A. Garcia

Teacher is a leader, an educator, wielder of power, caretaker of students, inheritor, leader, persuader, a mediator, one who imparts knowledge thru lesson, one who gives instruction, and nurtures the minds of individuals.

Master, a Greek word, means to become expert, to control or govern.

Guru, one who provides instruction or spiritual leaders in Hindu mysticism, a teacher or a leader regarded as having a special knowledge and power.

Educator is one who develops or trains the minds, capabilities and characters.

Different terminologies but it has only one meaning, to teach us to communicate with a special method and completeness, to draw out and developmental powers that already exists. Nurture the minds to furnish care and sustenance necessary for physical, mental, emotional, spiritual and moral growth.
The teacher as professionals, a teacher is skilled in the performance of his work which is concerned with the dissemination of knowledge. If education is the transfer of man’s accumulated knowledge through the years, then, is a teacher’s responsibility to transmit skills without sacrificing quality.

The teacher as psychologist, We can expect that the students has different personalities, so the teacher needs to understand the psychological truth, individual differences in their mental capacities, physique, and emotional stabilities, as well as, their environmental, cultural, economic condition, and family background. There can never be truly homogenous classes. Teachers must introduce a variety of teaching techniques. To encourage the student more desirables as teacher psychologist, you can help student by accepting and makes them understand one another, work together cooperatively, share experiences and communicate effectively with one another. With the teacher, you can help them learn more desirable patterns of loving, reduce neurotic anxiety, help them meet their psychological needs, guide them using their developmental task that leads to greater maturity and improving mental health.

The teacher as a planner, the teacher is essentially an organizer: one who brings about an individual’s self development and the improvement of society, one who takes care the unforeseen circumstances.

The teacher at work, as a wise saying runs: “The man who can make hard things easy, is the real teacher”. Teach; an act of order to Kingdom of God. As our Lord Jesus Christ is the original teacher in all mankind. Teaching has remained many splendedored calling, for it is immeasurable joys and rewards, no pot of gold can buy. The rewards derive from it are more psychological and emotional than economic. Such blessings range from personal and practical sets factor to these are humanitarian and idealistic. The teacher is likely better adjusted them the average person because his job gives him the opportunities to be creative, to reach a certain stature, to give part of himself and to contribute significantly to the lives of the young in their growth and development.

References:

The New International Webster’s Comprehensive Dictionary of the English Language, Encyclopedic Edition

Toward Effective Teaching, Revised Edition
By Filomena V. Rivera and Guillerma E. Sambrano