The teacher can truly make a difference in a pupil’s life. They say that at the back of a child’s success is the teacher. In order to make its possibility, the teacher may pursue these following ideas:

Provide the child chance to contribute in the class. The teacher should give the child the opportunity to share ideas which are not only helpful to him/ her but to the entire class.

Give responsibilities to the child. The duties bestowed on the learner will make him or her more responsible. The learning experience are instrumental in reaching success someday.

Develop the child’s skills. The teacher should aid the learner develop their respective skills in various facets of learning. These are life-long skills and are useful not only today but also in the future.

Scouts the child’s talents. The teacher should discover the exceptional talents of the learner. Having discover one’s talent will help each child to be more productive and fruitful in life.

Give the child’s the opportunities to lead. The teacher should develop the leadership potential of each learner. It may also prove that the future good leaders are trained by teachers.
Teach the child how to survive. The teacher may teach the child to handle things for survival. In this way, the child may cope with challenges and hurdle the life obstacles and be successful someday.
