LIFE OF A TEACHER

Teaching is the noblest profession as they say. Teaching is more than just making your students learn. It is about transforming every student to be a better individual. It is about motivating them to pursue their dreams every day.

Every day is not just an opportunity to teach students but also an opportunity to inspire them to dream as big as they can. It is our job as a teacher to motivate them to reach their dreams. It is our duty to guide them as they go through the process of life. Education is their stepping stone to get to the life they dream of having. It is our job to guide and teach them until they reach their dreams.

Teaching is never easy but always worth it. It could be as hard as chasing a diamond in a mine. It could be as hard as solving a math problem without knowing what formula to use. It could be as hard as understanding a poem written in a strange language. It could be as hard as singing a song you’ve just heard. It could be as hard as dancing to the unknown melody. But one thing is for sure, it is and will always be worth every second and every love you invest to your students once you hear the say “thank you ma’am, you are part of my success, without you pushing me to my limit, I couldn’t get this far”.
