MASTER’S DEGREE: ONE STEP FORWARD

by:
Jemee Joan M. De Jesus
Registrar I, Luakan National High School

“If you don’t step forward, you’re always in the same place.” -Nora Robert. What can and will you do to get what you want? Today, you are a teacher, a public servant, a private employee or a newly graduate student looking for something new, has a big room available for improvements, and ready to accept new challenges. You might want to consider taking up Master’s Degree. It is a step forward to your dreams.

Why pursue graduate studies? There are many reasons for an individual to take the degree. Master’s Degree is a great investment for your future. The school can be an improvement ground to those who are already in their career fields. It is taking college degree learnings into higher understanding with practicum.

Today, having the Degree is a big leap to being noticed in job market. Once, a student who is taking the class was asked as an introduction why he enrolled in this class. The answer was for “promotion”. The rest were asked for their reasons and everyone said the same. More jobs especially in public offices require the degree to be promoted. It can also be a title for an individual to hold. An employer prefers applicants holding the degree. Graduates are known to have the quality that the employers would want in their offices to work with.

Taking the degree would not only mean that you want promotion or a higher-paid job. This degree can also help you to pursue your interests in more depth. You are taking each subjects to deeper understanding with which you will be able to conduct researches that will prove or will strengthen your beliefs. A student of the degree could also contribute to the world’s knowledge through his research or his thesis. It will be available for public to read and will be references to ideas and formulate solutions to different problems in the society. Students who finished the degree can also be invited in conferences, local or international to present their papers. This is already an achievement to them as their works will be presented and published to be heard, read and practiced by other researchers. Their contributions to research will help improve social understanding.

Last but not the least, imagine working with the degree holders. All have mastered higher academic knowledge with their fields, everyone giving each other the wisdom they learned and sharing experiences within the team. It is like working with the bests and be motivated to do your jobs more adequately.

What stops you from taking the degree? Think. Money? Think again. It is a short-term investment for a long-term benefit.

References:
http://blog.uniplaces.com/8-good-reasons-apply-masters-degree/