ONE KIND WORD

by:
Melusa S. Santos
Teacher III, Bataan School of Fisheries

There is a power of life and death in the tongue. An encouraging word to a student who is feeling down can lift them up and help them make it through the day. The power to inspire and motivate makes a difference in one's life. It can either break or affect someone's personality, observing such powerful words can also give boost or power to fulfill one's aspirations in life. Self-talk in a way may help encourage a person or a learner, such as the following:

You can do it.
Thy will be done.
God can make great things possible.

Be positive.

A destructive word to someone who is down can lead to ways that may even kill them. A slip of the tongue, white lies or even ungrateful words may damage one's personality which may result in being disrespected by others.

Everyone must be careful of what they say. They must speak life to those who cross their path and not cause harm. Sometimes, it is hard to understand that an inspiring word can go such a long way. Anyone can speak words that tend to rob another of the spirit to continue in difficult times but a kind word is a special gift to an individual who needs some kind of encouragement from another.
In the same way, motivating students through positive remarks give them a chance, a will to do better since they know they are appreciated and liked for the good things they do and not judged by the not so good things they tend to mimic from others. One kind word will lead to students’ development of their self-worth and of others. When they know someone cares for them, they will eventually care for others, too. Saying they are good or they do well will lead them to look for the good in others, instead of discovering who do bad.

In valuing the power of their own words, teachers inculcate the same with the students who come to class every day. As what Mahatma Gandhi once said, “If you want change to happen, you must start it with yourself”. If they want students to speak from their hearts they must let them see how they speak from their own hearts first.

References:
The Power Of Words: How Words Impact Your Life
http://www.thelawofattraction.com/the-power-of-words/

The Power of a Teacher's Words
https://www.edutopia.org/discussion/power-teachers-words