The educational system welcomes one of the new ways in learning during the pandemic. Online learning is the type of learning which uses more technology such as laptops, cellphone, etc. that can help the teachers as well as the students in the learning process, unlike modular learning, online learners read and study their lessons through the internet, the students can also answer the given activities and examinations with the help of google classroom wherein it has the Google Sheets. The teacher can post the homework to the class and make them notified immediately after posting it. This is only one way of dealing with the online learning. In addition, online learning has its own advantages such as being efficient. The teachers can use different ways in teaching such as making videos for the lesson, podcasts, PDF’s, and other tools. Another one is the accessibility of the teachers and students; however, it limits the access only to students that have internet connection, the students that have a good connection can benefit from it. Moreover, other benefit of online learning would be the use of different learning styles. With online learning, the teacher can plan different learning style to a specific or group of students that may contribute to the improvement of the learning experience. On the other hand, online learning has disadvantage too. One of the disadvantages of this is the technology issues. The teacher as well as the student may encounter challenges in online learning such as having troubles with the cellphones, or laptops or maybe the internet connection of the student or teacher may be poor. Another one disadvantage of online learning could be shorter attention time for the students. Because the student is inside their house, he or she could face some distractions that may interfere with the learning process. These are some advantages and disadvantages of online learning but whatever life throws at us, we should continue reaching our dreams through education.
