ONLINE LEARNING CHALLENGES FOR TEACHER

by:
Charito M. Castañeda
Master Teacher I, Jose C. Payumo Jr. Memorial High School

Working remotely is not easy for the teacher because it’s hard to discuss a lesson online because they can’t see the faces of students if they are interested in learning or not but the teacher needs to do their part to discuss every lesson.

How is the teacher overcoming the challenges in online learning?

Staying connected with the students was a big challenge for the teacher because they have work to do and at the same time, they need to stay having a conversation with the students because they are responsible for the study of students that involve in their lesson.

The teacher should able to adapt to fast-changing because it’s a first step for them to teach the students and they can adjust quickly because in fast-changing there is no much time for planning. The biggest challenge and impact of a pandemic that cause online learning made the teachers do a lot of paper works because nowadays the learning online was involving more narrative reports, essays, and assessments were open-ended questions for the students and it causes more work to do for the teacher.

Today learning was minimized the time for teaching because they need to give more time to students to do the assessments, and the maximum time for an online class in every subject is 1 hour and 30 minutes, but the others were based on the capability of students to attend online classes.

Online classes or online learning could cause more challenge for the teacher but even it is hard for them they still do their best to support the students and teaches them in a way how the students will easily understand every lesson, helping each other was the best way to overcome all the challenges that they facing.

References:

Challenge’s teachers face when teaching online. In https://gocoderz.com/blog/challenges-teachers-face-when-teaching-online/