OUR SCHOOL: OUR HOUSE, OUR HOME

by:
Arlene M. Matilde
Principal I, Jose C. Payumo Jr. Memorial High School

School heads are the parents of their assigned schools, and as parents, they only want the best for their children. Just like their own families, they are scrupulous even to the small things/details around them.

Our school is our house, it is made up of the structures/buildings and classrooms for our students to be safe, comfortable and conducive for teaching-learning process. As school heads, it is our responsibility to maintain and take good care of all these, from the school gate to the perimeter fence, to every roof of every edifice, up to a single nail needed to do some repairs is our concern. Thank God, we have our Maintenance and Other Operating Expenses (MOOE) funds. It is not an easy task indeed. Since our school is our house, school heads constantly beautify and improve its physical environment to encourage not only the students but also stakeholders to value cleanliness and health sanitation. It is quite similar to an instance if we are expecting visitors to come to our house, we have this so-called general cleaning to please them. In school, aside from our routinary activities, we also have this preparation for the opening of every school year, known as National Schools Maintenance Week or Brigada Eskwela for our clientele. In short, we always make our school a reflection of our house wherein we can stay and relax.

Our school is our home. Mr. Dictionary defined "home" as a gathering place for a family to join in laughter, the one place you will always be surrounded by those who love you, a place or feeling of belonging. We have the home because we have family and every individual in our school is a member of our family. School heads build home within the school, where everyone plays important roles. They must know every member of their families to be recognized and be given equal opportunities to prove themselves, their abilities, capabilities, skills, and talents. As parents of our school, it is our duty to look into them and let them feel the affection and warmth coming from us. Let us guide them on their journey and sometimes all they want from their parents in school are

For teachers and staff – appreciation for what they are doing and simple recognition

For students – understanding for their shortcomings and time to listen

For parents and other stakeholders – a sweet smile and thank you.

In the end, let us make our school to be a beautiful house, and a home filled with love and happiness.