Learners are the primary reason of teaching-learning process. Their development representation is very important in achieving goals and objectives in learning. The results of their progress guarantees the effectiveness of the process. While, the student performs less and unwillingly, the parents/guardians are informed about their performances and output. It is very important to call the attention of the parents/guardians.

The parents/guardians have the most significant pat in the learners’ development. They are the one to connect the continuous procedure of learning. They are the most significant element to build the emotional strength of their children. Yet, there are certain cases where the guide needs to be guided. They become the missing link to sustain the learning process. There are factors why this kind of complications.

First, early marriage. Because of early marriage the parents do not know how to approach the circumstances. They lack the capacity of understand and deal with the issue to resolve. They need help to understand situations to relate to their child’s problem. The manner on how they can be effective on giving advise to their children should be taught to them since they have skipped the process on listening to their parent’s advise when they were still young.

Second is the family background. Family relationship connection is very important to a child’s development. How often each member of the family communicates with each other. The manner of communication with each family member is very important. Each one in the family has a function to expert on. The role of the father, the mother and the children. The treatment on the delegation and the utilization of each role.
Third, economics status. It does not matter whether a child is given all the things he/she needed or not. It is how made them realize the value of money. It is how they need to understand the importance of living. This is one of the reasons why most of the learners does not want to continue on going to school because their parents think that it is a waste of time and money. They are struggling to find money to put food in their table. These parents/guardians should be taught that the responsibilities are theirs not their children.

Lastly, environment exposure. What the parents/guardians have experienced in the past are most likely the system that they will passed on to the next generation. If not addressed properly, it is just the same story that they will keep on repeating every now and then. Because one person cannot give what he does not have.

Our society has a big role to make this issue be resolved. Parental counselling must be given consideration as a regular activity in the calendar. It is great to equip the parents/guardians to bring forth effectiveness on rearing their children to become better citizen of the country.
