POSITIVE DISCIPLINE

by:
Imelda F. Culla

SINCE they become responsible parents, I mean those parents- the mother and father-who are right thinking individuals know how to value the sense of uprightness and discipline. As parents they should know how to appreciate the child’s gesture of interacting with the people around him. In the beginning, a childish mind start to recognize what is good and what is bad; what is proper and improper. It is for the parents to guide their children to the right track of mind and what are supposed to be normal and abnormal. Of course, parents with good intention for their children know this very well. At the young age of three or four, children with the help and proper guidance of their parents, will have already the capability to learn good things they observe from the parents and elders. Consider this scenario: A mother and her four-year old daughter were on board a jeepney when the child began to unwrap a candy, then she was about to throw the candy wrapper out the window. Hence her mother quickly stopped her from doing so. “But why, mommy?” asks the child. The mother explained that throwing any garbage on the road is bad because there is a waste basket inside the jeepney where one can throw a candy wrapper or any waste matter. It takes a lot of explaining before a child can understand good manners and right conduct. The parents must exert effort to let a child understand what is proper and what is improper. You need not hurt the children to instill discipline into their minds.Try to show nice example to convince them instead of letting loose expletives and curses that will traumatize them in the long run. Remember, even a two-year old child can understand already and knows how to interact with people around him. Just show him the way.

References:

https://positivediscipline.org
https://afineparent.com/be/positive/positive/discipline.html