Positive discipline is what the teacher needs in order to augment the academic performance of the kids in the school. In the application of positive discipline, the teacher can easily motivate the learners to improve their academic performances.

Several schools are now applying positive discipline to win the hearts of the schoolchildren and to persuade them to excel.

Positive discipline has an immense impact on the part of every learner. If the teachers are managing the learners with the use of good words and actions this would inspire them to act accordingly and would be more motivated to study.

The inclusion of positive discipline sets rules to follow. There rules that the teacher has set is for positive cause. They will be used in managing the class behaviors and attitudes toward studies. Planting positive rules yields positive response. Positive discipline, therefore, produces better academic outputs.
Positive discipline may prevent misbehaviors. The teacher who employs positive discipline in the classroom tends to guide the behaviors of the leaders thus misbehaviors may be eliminated. Since the learners are well-guided then behaving well most of the time would be possible.

The use of positive discipline may develop better study habits. Positive behavior would enable to train the way the children study. It also creates in them good habits in studying to help them to improve academically.

Positive discipline is the way to stimulate the attention of the children to do good whether in the class or even at home. It enlightens them to act in compliance to proper norms or standards.

The use of positive discipline in the school is very advisable. It keeps the child on the right track of progress. It makes one develop better behaviors and admirable academic performance.
