PROS AND CONS OF WORKING FROM HOME

by:
Argel Angelo D. Ignacio
Administrative Assistant II, SDO Annex Pilar

Working is a manner of functioning or operating which means you have to do something in order to earn for a living. Working from home is a common scenario these days. It may be difficult for others, but it can also be an ease for someone. One cannot contain his concentration while working, but one can also enjoy his work from home. Some may lack resources, but some may have supplies. These are some of the advantages and disadvantages of working from home that we may encounter while this pandemic has not yet ended.

There may have disadvantages in working from home. One is distraction that may arise any time. There may be some interruptions from children, neighbors, friends, and family. Another disadvantage is the difficulty in separating home from your work because some may be obliged to wash the dishes, go to the grocery, do the cleaning, and so on while you also have to finish some work, too. It is very important to separate your work from the household chores to avoid difficulty.

While there are some disadvantages, also there are some advantages of working from home. You can save money and time when working from home because you do not have to commute to go to work and you do not have to leave the house very early in the morning so you will be on time for work. Another one is proximity to home and family because when you work of course you can get tired and we know that it is very satisfying and comforting to just glance at your child playing on one side of the house and once in a while smile at you.
We may have different reactions, different feelings, and different thoughts about it but the important thing is that we have to be thankful that we can still work from home despite of this pandemic.

References:

The Advantages and Disadvantages of Working from Home
By: Mohannad Aljawamis