PROUD OF BEING AN EDUCATOR

by:
Editha C. Santos
Teacher II, Orani North Elementary School

If there is one profession that is considered to be honorable that is teaching. Being a teacher is not for the sake of having a decent job but it is means to influence and inspire the people around. It is not just confined in the four corners of the room but goes out to reach others.

Dealing with young people is such a zestful experience. Teaching them is much more endearing. As a teacher, it is indeed rewarding that you are shaping the mind and character of each child and this makes you proud as an educator.

The essence of ideas is transmitted when a teacher is explaining. The teacher being the most trusted person in the school can influence and direct the belief and understanding of the students. The teacher is truly very proud to share their knowledge, views and opinions.

The teacher continuously guides behaviors. If there are students who are misbehaving in the school, the teacher opts to direct them. The teacher believes that charisma may be used in order to persuade them to become better. The teacher is proud to guide the actions of each learner.
The connection and relationship with the people in the community are established. A teacher is always eager to establish good connection and harmonious relationship with others. This is being taught to students for them to achieve goodwill with their fellows. The teacher is proud to think that teachers connect lives.

The future professionals are trained and honed by teachers. The teacher prepares the youth to be professionals someday. The teacher makes ways for the students to learn and prepare them to face the challenges of the real world tomorrow. The teacher is just proud mentor of the future professionals.

The respect for others is shared because of the teacher’s effort. One basic virtue that a teacher tells to students in the school is respect. This is a universal goodness that could result acceptance and harmony. The teacher is just confident for having it shared to learners.

Be proud of being a teacher for what you do is for the benefit of the entire humanity. There are many reasons why a teacher is confident in the chosen profession.

References:

https://www.theodysseyonline.com/why-would-want-teacher