QUALITY EDUCATION..... A CHALLENGE TO FACE

by:

Maria Cecilia R. Cabrera

Teacher III, San Benito Elementary School

The Department of Education (DepEd) has been striving so hard to uplift the present condition of the Philippines Educational System. Different strategies and techniques are presented to encourage better results which can be based upon the performance level of schools.

The K12 Curriculum is now on its sixth year of implementation and successfully initiating a better and quality product among the learners. Teachers are required to attend trainings on how to implement the program. It is a step by step process focusing on the different subject matter wherein it considers the timing of instruction among the learners. Mother Tongue had been included to facilitate a better understanding of every lesson and to inculcate the dialect of every region.

The DepEd has initialized a written examination among the teachers to know the level of competencies of the educators and to be able to know the needs of the educators to improve the quality of teaching. After identifying the weaknesses of the teachers the DepEd now designs seminars and trainings for the teachers.

Technical assistance from school heads is of great help to teachers in order to improve their craft in teaching. It is the assistance of the school principal to the improvement of the teachers teaching styles. The Teachers Individual Plan for Professional Development also enables the school principals determine where else he can be a help to his teachers. All of these programs that the DepEd initiated and applied benefited the teachers. Through this, quality of Education in our country may improve for the years to come.
References:

www.deped.gov.ph/k-to-12/about/k-to-12-basic-education-curriculum

https://www.slideshare.net/kenjoyb/mother-tongue-curriculum-guide