READING MAKES LIFE WORTH LIVING

by:
Aimee I. Roque

Reading is the basic competency in learning. It is proven in most studies that reading is the essential rudimentary skill for learning.

A person who can read knows a lot. The fundamental step in reading from the universal language is by knowing how to read ABC. Even to some other countries, understanding the use of their mother tongue to learn their language to be able to read.

Symbols, figures, etc. must be observed to recognize the idea. Recognizing is by literally repeating the concept for mastery. An individual who keeps on repeating a concept in at least two weeks, it becomes a system.

Reading needs a lot of practice before it becomes a system. When a person knows how to read, he could be able to comprehend the meaning and analyze the idea. Comprehension that connects to a more widen flow of communication and communication that allows interaction.

A person who is able to communicate can lead to progress. The progress that will extend the country’s development that will benefit all the people. The value to participate without apprehension on becoming competitive and successful.
It is through reading where the society begins to express ideas. To be able to be heard, reading helps a person grow in knowledge and in wisdom. It is where pen and paper being heard. Writing is nothing if no one will read it. It can transfer from one place to another without judgment and prejudices as long as the reader appreciates the idea.

Reading also opens new opportunities to do things. It inspires people to express opinions which may lead to enlightenment and even discoveries. This guides a person to follow rules and instructions at times to meet the output perfectly done. It directs possibilities to experiment and find answers to questions.

We may say reading is the hardest phase amongst elementary pupils, once the obstacle has been surpassed, it will give a lot of potential opportunities for greatness.

Nonetheless, the virtue of willingness and commitment will give the drive to engage into reading. The manner on guzzling reading as part of everyday living. Through reading, it will envision a person the future, appreciate the present and mesmerize the past. It also gives the wonders of the unknown that will bring exploration to make life more enthusiastically worth living.

References: