RESET

by:
Aileen P. Navarro
Teacher III, Bataan School of Fisheries

How I wish that this year has a reset button. If only humans were allowed to reset time, maybe many would press that button and go back to the time where life was still easy and not this complicated as it is now.

But we live in a life where is no undo button available every time we encountered bad. Everything we do, whether the outcome is good or bad, we just need to move on and live life as it is. With no undo button to go back to where we fall. There is only that forward button where we are obliged to live life and make it better as we forward in life.

We all fall short and made mistakes. We are humans, born to make mistakes. But we are not living to repeatedly make the same mistakes. Instead, we are born to make things right and not fall back again to where we fall before. It’s hard living these days, but what is harder is living in a regretful life and not having the courage to move on and fight the battles of life. We only live once, and as we live, make sure that you live by the purpose that He designed for us.

Remember that there is no CTRL+ALT+DEL button in life. If you fall once, or even twice or thrice, or may it be a lot of fallbacks, there is always a reason to stand and still live life according to His purpose.

References:

[1] How to Reset Your Life WRITTEN BY JOSHUA BECKER
(HTTPS://WWW.BECOMINGMINIMALIST.COM/RESET/)