SCHOOL - COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIP FOR BETTERMENT OF LEARNING

by:
Lanie D. Lalic
Pagalanggang National High School

The school exists for the community, it creates a connection that may help the people to provide their needs. There must be a cooperation between the two in order to have develop and productive individual. When teachers, students and community people view one another as partners in the education a caring community will be formed. The purpose of all such partnership is to improve the achievements of students, making teaching and learning process more effective. In a broad sense, it enables the community to strengthen the schools and the schools strengthen the community. There are many reasons for developing school and community partnerships. It provides community support, increase parent involvement and help teachers as well as administrators with their work. The main reason to have such partnerships is to help all the students and community members to meet their needs such as providing quality education, giving opportunities and providing resources.

Various organization and other agencies shared their responsibility for the development of learner. School alone can’t provide the resources needed by the students thus the role of community arises. The collaboration between the two which are school, community with the effort of parents may result for the betterment of learning. They are active partners that moulds and encourage the hope of our nation. Partnership is significant for helping the students to achieve their maximum development that why collaborative effort is needed. When parents actively engage their selves and able to responds to the needs of their child it will resulted to a positive outcome on their children. It will generate inside the family and to the whole community.
Sharing and maximizing resources are important in helping the school to provide an education that will benefit the learner. Different stakeholders may extend their help and effort to bring and promote a healthy education. Volunteer services among other groups also develop the social aspects of an individual. There is mutual benefit among the school and the community.

School have different partners with different entities so these may help the whole organization. Strong partnership between the school-community serves as evidence that there is a strong eagerness among the two to push and reinforce our young people.

References:

https://www.education.nh.gov/instruction/school_health/health_coord_family.htm