SHARING RESPONSIBILITIES TO POSSIBILITIES

The success of every goal and objective depends on the perspective as directive. Even in the hardest times when one is sincere in finishing certain tasks, guaranteed result is still expected. In this time when every DepEd employee is trying hard to face the journey amidst uncertainty, the real feature must be dealt with strong belief and sense of integrity that in spite of these trials, the school head and teachers are still on their best interest to keep the flame burning in imparting learning. The courage to continue the given responsibility in the new normal setting may be challenging but not intimidating and boring because the process are new in the sense that the school head and teachers have to work harder and better to retain our status as educators and serve our school clients in the best way we could, guided by the thrusts that the department instill in us.

The possibilities are earned by doing our best in tackling the responsibilities. The teachers do their part, administrators or principals need to impart. The previous seminars which we now called webinars are mind blowing as we watch and listen to somebody or someone, whom are prescribing tasks to do after all that were said and done. The learning delivery modality may somewhat be compared to an agony but is giving the school head and teachers the revision to work and function as implementers without hesitation.

As educators, we envision that the new normal for the entire school year must turn out smoothly with the teachers and students sharing knowledge collaboratively. When one is destined to serve, the spirit goes with it. School heads and teachers play an integral part in the delivery of knowledge in any and every way we can, without sacrificing the mental and physical aspects. In this certain time when the future is unpredictable, hope and belief to survive must be the shield of all educators to continue the journey and serve the people with empathy and quality.
