Teaching is a noble profession. They say that without a teacher, there would not be a successful engineer, doctor, or other professions that we may have now. The future of the nation is in the hands of the teachers. Analyzing in the situation what is possible is the most important thing that we learn from teachers. (Sharma, 2016). The influence of a teacher in the early life of the child have a great effect on them.

As a teacher in fourth grade, every day offers a challenging role because every individual is unique. It is difficult to keep the attention of pupils under the different ages and abilities. They do not learn in the same way. They have their strength and weaknesses. It is vital for teachers to have dedication, passion and patience, all are necessary to ensure learning of the pupils. The same characters are needed for students in order for them to cope up in the classroom situation. With that, learning of pupils would be achieved.

Being a teacher not only end in teaching academic subjects but extends to being a parent surrogate. As a second parent, a teacher should be approachable and friendly to encourage pupils to be more open in sharing his or her joyful experiences at home, in schools as well as his or her personal problems that he or she may have.

Winning in the contests is only a part of pupils’ success. Acquiring a diploma is not a proof that a teacher is efficient and effective. To be an effective teacher cannot be measured through winning competitions and helping the pupils gain honor and diploma. It can be seen in the lives of the students. How they change their lives and become successful is a vivid proof that the teacher had a positive influence towards a certain student. Becoming a better person and a productive, useful member of the society is a success every teacher must look forward to if they want to contribute greatly in the country’s future.
A teacher may have different stories to tell as they meet various types of students every year. But whatever it is that they have, one thing is sure to remain, that is teachers are vital in building a nation, contributes highly in producing well-mannered and spirited individuals who will bring good to the nation, and will remain the country’s partner in promoting the common good every society struggles to obtain.

References:

Sharma, Vijay (2016, July 6) Why Teachers are Important in Our Life