In learning and teaching process problems always arise. It is not how good you teach as a teacher but it is how the results of the learning took place among the learners is measured. Most of the times teacher prepares teaching materials thinking that these are applicable and suited among her pupils. But then there will always be time that the teaching strategy that you have used does not suit your learners capability therefore learning is not achieved.

In such condition there is a need for an intervention material which will solve the problem immediately. Strategic Intervention Material as defined by Dy (2) refers to teaching aid introduced into the teaching methods to stimulate students’ interest in the activity in order to increase their level of understanding.

Therefore an intervention materials should act as a medicine which is immediately given in order to resolve a problem such as the difficulties of learners in understanding a particular lesson. The dosage if compared to medicine should level the necessity of an individual who is in need of medication.

Moreover, intervention materials can be considered also as “first aid” which is a material to be given at once… ASAP, in order to help the pupils’ difficulties. SIM should be given at once to apply its main purpose. It is quite hard to produce one but if it is considered as the solutions to end up difficulties of a particular learner therefore it should be done. Strategic Intervention Materials is the answer to learning difficulties if usage and importance is understood.
