TEACHER – FACTOR, A GREAT MOTIVATOR

by:
Avgil P. Megino
Samal National High School – Annex

Development of the students is really a challenging job. Lot of considerations to include for the learners to become holistically developed. A combination of all the efforts of the stakeholders, specifically, teachers, students and parents must exist to assure that goal towards the success of the teaching – learning process will be attained.

Together with the parents/guardian, teacher plays a very vital role in the children’s development. However, sad part on this is that once an individual learner failed, that is always a teacher – factor. It is really quite a little burden for the teachers to carry all the blame in the success or failure of a student. Children’s right is always a shield for the teachers not to implement proper discipline and manage the whole process of developing a child. But, how about the right of the teacher? Well, right of the teacher is not that affected as long as the he knows his restrictions and limitations.

“Teaching is not a profession as they always say, hence, it is a vocation.” A job which requires time, heart, head, soul and basically, your whole. Without passion, determination and love to do the duties and responsibilities of a teacher, you will not be able to get victory on this.

On the development of learning, teacher must have to do everything and wholeheartedly sacrifice and service for the learners. Without any hesitations, as you enter the world of education, be ready for all the additional tasks and assignments to be given which future of the children depends.
It is a dilemma for a teacher to think that they must handle different jobs and agencies. Teachers, especially in public schools required to become a psychologist, a nurse, a disaster preparedness mentor, and the like. These tasks are needed to be done as it cater health department, disaster risk reduction management, social welfare and others. Very broad as we might think but… that is the sad reality.

Being aware of the fact that teacher – factor will be always a number one reason in breaking or molding the learner’s future can be converted as great motivator. As again that is reminded that teaching is a vocation, it is understood that teachers are expected to go beyond their limit, work beyond standards and exert extra time to the fullest just to give the needs of the students.

It may be hard for most of the teachers to consider this fact as inspiration. But as we consider this reason – teacher factor will be the basis of learner’s development, you will get to realize that teachers were given opportunities to help the society in making it a better place by creating better people. There are lots of factors to consider, and it is understandable. Teachers’ low salary, assurance and security of their own personal lives, parents’ support and students’ effort – it may conclude that teachers should not be blamed on the failure of the students. However, setting the teachers’ mind that primarily, he is the key factor to produce good citizen in the community, teacher factor reason can be accepted as great motivation.
References:

