TEACHERS ARE GOOD FOLLOWERS

by:
Marygrace N. Santos
Teacher III, Magsaysay National High School

An anonymous writer once said, Change is inevitable. Progress is optional. Come to think of it, the future is in school today. Education is that important, and teachers are the key players. Much depend on them on how they educate people, We now realize that in a fast moving world, the role of teachers move forward to an unprecedented rate. Unfortunately, the organization or community that does not unleash the genius and potential of its people, like the teachers will fall backward.

The challenge is clear for all teachers, the DepEd is doing its best for future of education, through its recent curriculum, the K to 12 program which is now on its 6th year of implementation. It is clear that creating a future for the children is the essence of leadership. A teacher is also a leader regardless of the issues they face every day. high stakes testing, achievement gaps, budget needs, lack of staff, disciplinary concerns, parent and community support, keeping a highly qualified professionals physical facilities condition, class size, attendance, habitual absenteeism, effective technology and others. Each of these issues is important for the teacher to deal without a doubt We need to be connected with the world of discipline. where we are in now.. We know that teachers are also leaders in their own right as such they are good followers.

There are so many concerns that are tackled by teachers in their everyday work in the school, not to mention the relationships and communication with coworkers, students and superiors. They must also possess qualities that may add life to their work. They are simply the values that mold a teacher’s personality. which later on effect dramatic changes in us and eventually lead to lasting success. As Aristotle puts it, He who cannot be a good follower, cannot be a good leader.

References:

Marx, G. Future Focused Leadership2006 USA