TEACHERS AS FRONTLINERS

by:
Sylvia B. Atanacio
Master Teacher II, Orani North Elementary School

In this time when Corona Virus has widely spread, the members of the society should play their respective roles and one of the tasks that teacher may perform is being the frontliner in the field of education.

In this time of pandemic the teachers welcome all kinds of learners. The K to 12 students are being enrolled in the school and even the other kinds of learners are being welcomed.

Teachers also accommodate parents for inquiries. The parents normally ask questions on the education of the children and on the kind of mode to be used during this time of pandemic.

The modules and lessons of learners are being prepared by teachers. Though it is too challenging to prepare modules still teachers are very willing to create them for the benefit of the learners.

Teachers also reminds the students of proper healthy measures during pandemic. The teachers continue to inform the students of the safety measures to help the students to be free from virus.

The educational goals and objectives are also realized with the help of teachers. The teachers are in one with the educational leaders in realizing the vision and mission of the school.
Teachers serve as facilitators. During the implementation of the alternative mode of learning, the teachers are willing to guide and assist the learners.

In this current time teachers serve as the links between the school and the learners. The teachers connect the learners to the school.

These are the roles that teachers portray in this time of the New Normal being frontliners.

References:

https://www.ibyb.org/news/teachers-are-frontliners-too