TEACHER’S GOOD QUALITIES FOR LEARNERS

by:
Jocelyn F. Acuña
Teacher III, Almacen Elementary School

A teacher gives knowledge and facilitates the learning instruction in school. He/She is a person who gives education for learners. The teacher’s role and duties are often formal and ongoing, carried out at a school or other place of formal education. In the country, a person who wishes to become a teacher must first obtain professional qualifications. Teachers use a lesson plan to facilitate student learning, providing a course of study that is called the curriculum. A teacher’s role may vary among cultures. Teachers may provide instruction in literacy and numeracy.

As much as parents are responsible for the upbringing of their own children, the personal development of everyone else’s children comes under the aegis of a teacher’s responsibility towards the society. The influence that teachers have on their learners may not be direct if they are truly worth the principles trickle into the psyche of their learners. These, then, find expression in the personalities of those learners and the way they conduct themselves in various walks of their lives. This phenomenon is what we call inspiration. All teachers encourage life lessons to their learners, but those who manage to do so by making the learners inspired with all the wisdom with as less mugging up of knowledge as possible, are the ones that are truly looked up to.

Gail Godwin stated that, “Good teaching is one-fourth preparation and three – fourths theater”. This means that being a good teacher is also being a good entertainer. Being a teacher, you must understands that imparting knowledge should be in enjoyable way to make it effective for learner’s in teaching learning process.

Research found that being a good teacher should possess good qualities for the achievement of good quality learners. There were only a few, but they all had the following qualities in common: confidence, knowledge, kind, patience, true compassion for their learners, understanding, the ability to look at life in a different way and to explain a topic in a different way, dedication to excellence, unwavering support, willingness to help student achieve, pride in student’s accomplishments and passionate.

Here are some qualities of a good teacher that are important to possess; passion for teaching, love of kids, love of their subject, a willingness to change and work collaboratively, enough to survive hard days and love improvement. These passionate teacher’s qualities should bear by every person in the teaching field to make life better for learners and themselves too. The kind of teachers who work at instructing the learner is a significant factor in the kind of education. Quality teachers naturally result in quality education. Mediocre teachers produce learners who cannot make full use of their potentials, who cannot contribute the whole of what can be expected of them.

Teaching is a hard work and a noble profession but as teachers, we should work tirelessly in order for us to create learners who face the great challenges that life in the future may offer. Let us all inspire the learners with our passion and give them the highest quality education as possible.

References:

Quote by Gail Godwin retrieved from http://www.brainyqoute.com
“Importance of Teacher Good Qualities”, retrieved from http://www.buzzle.com/articles/importance-of-teachers.html